課程概述	The Communicative approach based on content-based themes would be the curriculum for level 3 writing courses. As students gain the knowledge of basic writing strategies and skills, it would be a good idea to give students intellectually challenging and emotional appealing material to generate their enthusiasm. Content-based themes encourage the kind of critical thinking that students are expected to do across the curriculum in college. It would provide students who lack some of the analytical skills needed to do academic work with experience in analyzing ideas, making inferences, supporting opinions, understanding points of view, and writing for different audiences. As students reason to write, they practice the skills and strategies that are vital for academic success, and they have an opportunity to write on a wide variety of themes that reflect the academic curriculum.

英文大綱	We begin with review and basic organizational principles, and then move through increasingly difficult writing assignments, each building on the skills of the last. Eventually students will be expected to be able to produce a five paragraph essay on a new topic in one hour and fifteen minutes. Student groups will each present a grammar lesson once in the semester (8 of the 16 weeks).
