課程概述	Hi students this is an introductory course, so if you don't know anything about philosophy, no problem: this course should suit you fine.
課程目標	The goal is to teach you the basics of philosophy and what philosophers think about. Many people see the word and are scared of the subject but actually it is not so terrible or difficult. I hope you will have lots of fun learning in my class.
課程大綱	Our daily lives are full of things that keep us busy like school work, MSN chatting, computer games and KTV singing. But sometimes you may be on your own in the shower or waiting for a friend and start thinking. You may even wonder about what you should be doing with your life or ask yourself why do you always stand around waiting when your friend is always an hour late. This is the real beginning of PHILOSOPHY. It starts with wondering about things, asking questions and trying to work out WHY? So most of you are philosophers without realizing it. But there is still a lot to learn on this course, not just strange names of philosophers like Socrates, Descartes or Jean Paul Sartre but even stranger philosophical terms like, Metaphysics, Existentialism or Cynicism. Hopefully you will be learning some of these and more. I will be for the first few weeks adhering to the list on the schedule below. Later we can branch out into more modern areas of philosophy.
