	Course Description
	Academic Writing is a required two-semester graduate course. It equips AE graduate students with knowledge of the features and conventions of academic writing in the fields of English language teaching and business communication.
	And it intends to develop participants' writing skills for producing clear, coherent, and well-organized research papers in the APA format.
	In Academic Writing II, the objectives of the course are three-fold. First, students will further develop their writing skills for summarizing and critiquing ideas and information for academic purposes. Second, they will map out strategies for reviewing literature, explaining methods, describing data, discussing results, and drawing conclusions and implications. Third, this writing course aims to assist participants in drawing up a research proposal. Overall, it familiarizes grad students with the APA format, and helps them achieve better academic writing proficiency.
	Finally the analysis source are board on the following the state of Finally, the grades for this course are based on the following three criteria: discussion and participation (50%), thesis introduction (30%), and a short literature review (20%).
